

MILSA inbound

u^b

^b
UNIVERSITY
OF BERN

An intercultural learning program

for international degree-seeking MA and PhD students at the University of Bern

MILSA inbound

An intercultural learning program

for international degree-seeking MA and PhD students at the University of Bern

Are you a newly enrolled international student at the University of Bern and are interested in meeting other students and learning about your new cultural environment?

MILSA inbound is a mentoring program designed for international students and is aimed at supporting you in your intercultural learning process during your first two semesters at the University of Bern.

MILSA inbound will

- help you build your social network in Bern by connecting with peers
- help you become familiar with Swiss cultural practices and introduce you to Bern and its surroundings
- encourage you to reflect on your intercultural experiences during workshops, by writing blog posts for milsablog.ch and by joining the social and cultural program organized for MILSA inbound students.

Participation is optional and free of charge for University of Bern students. An average knowledge of English is required as the program is taught in English.

Duration of the program is approximately 8 months (October to June). Please apply for participation by 30 September by registering online on milsa.unibe.ch.

To find out more about MILSA, program details, participation and registration, please visit our website milsa.unibe.ch.